

WHERE HAS THE MONEY GONE?

During the past year there has been a general suspicion on the part of the public that the Reno Board of Trade was a combination arranged by a few persons for their own personal aggrandisement and financial profit. The Southern Pacific Railway Co. has for some months past advanced money liberally for the promotion of the interests of the State Board of Trade, and several private individuals have also been very generous with their donations. As near as the APPEAL can ascertain, there must have been four or five hundred dollars per month dumped into the treasury. The fact that the Southern Pacific Railway Co. has suddenly withdrawn its support would indicate that something was the matter with the State Board of Trade which had come under the observation of the lynx-eyed Huntington. It cannot be claimed that the Railway Company seek to retard the development of the State as business prosperity in Nevada and speedy settlement of unoccupied land means additional business to the company. It is evident to anyone with half an eye to the situation that Mr. Huntington regarded the money as wasted, looked upon it as a leak and forthwith proceeded to plug it up for the small items of expense in the affairs of the company occupy his attention just as readily as the big ones. There is a general feeling throughout the State that somebody has hogged the appropriation.

The APPEAL would therefore suggest that the officers of the company, publish in the Reno Gazette, which appears to be the organ of the State Board of Trade, a detailed account of its receipts and expenditures, in order that the people of the State may get some idea where the money has gone to.

STATE UNIVERSITY.

The APPEAL acknowledges, with thanks, the receipt of the Annual Report of the State University for the year ending 1891. This report indicates that the State University is doing good work. The total number of pupils is 132, divided among six departments. The Business Department has the largest number, 36, and the Agricultural the smallest, 3.

President, Stephen A. Jones, says in concluding his report:

"It has been my earnest endeavor to impress upon the University these ideas: The development of thought and the formation of character are the highest ideals in an institution of learning; the teacher should teach so as to repress superficiality and to promote thoroughness; independence of thought and originality in investigation should always be encouraged; one-sided presentation of facts and the formation of incorrect conclusions, should be studiously avoided; intense application of the mind alone can produce the highest intellectual results."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The grip is making good Indians of a large number of the Cherokees.

It costs a Prussian subject about $750 to secure the title of baron, and he has to pay $2,000 if made a count and $9,000 if created a prince.

The Knight of Pythias Ashtabula, Ohio, have decided to erect a monument to the memory of the unrecognized dead who perished in the Ashtabula railroad disaster, and they appeal to the public for contributions.

Shipments of grain and flour for the starving Russians will go forward with more rapidity hereafter. New York has raised $25,000 and Philadelphia is well on the way toward $100,000, to be mainly devoted to paying for transportation.

Carruthers a Scotch editor, looked so much like Thackeray that upon one occasion when Carruthers called upon Thackeray, the maid who met him at the door laughed in his face because she thought her master in a fit of absent-mindedness had come home and asked for himself.

There is much difference of opinion in speculative circles as to whether the alleged wheat corner is a real thing or a "fake." It is a "bull" combine, but wheat-growers will not probably make much by that. The combination will take care that it does not make a market for others. It is working for itself.
